

Master of Arts in Education in Educational Administration
(Principal P-12)
Traditional and Option 6 (for Rank I or II)

Grow Your Own Principal (GYOP) Cohort Model
Graduate Program Overview

Whether you're employed as a school administrator or are aspiring to become one, the master's in education administration degree will equip you with the skills and knowledge you need to succeed in the position. Within the GYOP model, courses are taught in person at a designated site by district and university faculty to deliver program content tailored to the particular needs of each school district. Summer courses are taken online with traditional students.

The master's degree program will teach you all of the aspects of leading a school as an administrator, including balancing a budget and developing a positive culture among the institution's teachers and staff members. The 30-hour, Level I and II curriculum is based on real-life scenarios and not theories. You will also learn cutting-edge educational administration methods. The online master's degree additionally explores the fundamentals of school administration, school law, curriculum and the evaluation of staff and culture. A school principal internship is also part of the program's requirements.
