Professional development that provides constant feedback and monitoring, as well as a plan for continuous growth is even more difficult to find. “Assistance for Assistants - How To Be a Great #2” is just the training opportunity you have been searching for.

Dr. Kevin F. Hub of HUB CONSULTING has more than 20 years of leadership experience, including several years as an Assistant Principal and Assistant Superintendent with Madison County Schools in Richmond, Kentucky and as an adjunct instructor in the Department of Education Leadership with Eastern Kentucky University. He has been certified by the Gallup Organization as a Strengths™ Performance Coach. His passion is leadership development and he has been inspired to fill the professional development void that exists for assistant principals and aspiring school leaders. These workshops and coaching sessions will hone the skills necessary to “Be a Great #2” and articulate the true value of the second in command. More importantly, this leadership series will include professional development sessions with measurable objectives and action plan strategies tied to the ISLLC standards.

This year-long event includes four (4) large group sessions and three (3) individual coaching sessions (30 hours of EILA credit approved). The large group sessions will be held in Richmond, Kentucky. The individual coaching sessions (conducted via telephone) will focus on the StrengthsFinder™ results of each participant.
